Hello, my name is Shefali Naval!

“My decision to join IGTC Bangalore was a well thought out one. A close friend of mine recommended it for its association with Germany and the integrated internship programme. During further discussions with its alumni network, I found out that the faculty is also top-notch. When I researched more on the programme on the IGTC website, I was impressed by the list of German companies that were associated with the Indo-German Chamber of Commerce. The course was not only unique because of the internship opportunity in a German company, but also because it offered a German language course. Apart from that, the various posts, articles and testimonies by reputed managers of various companies further inspired me to enrol in the Post Graduate Programme in Business Administration (PGPBA).

After completing the admission formalities, which included written entrance tests and internship interviews, the first week included various trainings in cross-cultural and soft skills development. Even though the first phase was pretty packed with several interesting subjects, we had the opportunity for a factory visit to Toyota-Kirloskar Pvt. Ltd. and ethnic day celebrations! We’ve had the best of faculty teaching us and they patiently answered all of our questions. Following phase one, my internship at Lufthansa Technik Services India Pvt. Ltd. gave me a clear and practical insight into what I’ve learned theoretically at IGTC. It was a fantastic experience and I’m looking forward to the rest of it starting in August.

Now that I have experienced all of this, I can vouch for the authenticity and recommend this programme to all those looking out for something special.”
